

How the food started talking!

By: Ava Holmes

One morning there was a family. They were a happy family. There was a mom, dad and a girl named May.

They were making
bacon and eggs for breakfast. Right before it was finished and on the plate the food
started talking.

The mom yelled “Let’s call the magic wizard”. The family yelled “okay”! Then the mom called the wizard. The wizard teleported to their house.

Then when the Wizard got there he made a potion that makes food stop talking. But, the family was still scared to eat the food.

Then the wizard
teleported back to his workshop while the family put all the food in the trash.

The family said,
“Everything is fine
now!” But, nothing was fine. The house and everything in it started talking. So,
they yelled
“WIZARD!”

The wizard teleported
back to the house and made a potion that made everything in the neighborhood never talk again.

Then, the family
made some more
breakfast.

They made a lot so they invited the neighbors and the Wizard over to eat.

They ate everything except the biscuit they found in the bottom of the basket.

Nobody wanted the biscuit.

So.....

They had to play
rock paper scissors
to see who should eat the biscuit. Dad lost. Then Dad ate
the biscuit.
