

The King and The Princess

By: Grant Nguyen

Once upon a time there was a big, big, big castle. A princess named Mary Osou lived there with her parents the King and Queen.

She had a big bed room. Princess Mary always wore purple dresses and a sparkling crown with diamonds.

One day the princess said “HELP!” really loud and the king shouted “Where is the princess?”

Help!!

An evil man wanted to be rich like the King. He had captured the princess. The evil man said, "I am going to put you into a dungeon". The princess said "no, do not put me into a dungeon." The princess got captured and the evil man hatched the gate of the dungeon.

The dungeon was scary, it had sharp things like a chainsaw. The princess said, "it's cold in here!" The princess tried to escape but she got tazed and it hurt a lot. The princess said, "OWWW!"

The King couldn't find the princess at all. He looked everywhere, he went outside and tried to find the princess. The evil guy was standing and looking at the King.

Then the King saw the princess fazed and said “NOOO!”

The King ran to the dungeon and then he found the Princess there. The King got trapped in a cage too. The cage was dark.

When he got trapped he saw the evil man and he said, “You will not get away with this!” Then the King broke the cage open and the King got tazed too, he said “OWW!” too.

The King woke up and got the Princess and took her to safety. When the evil man was relaxing and not looking, they got away!

NO!

The King pushed the evil man into the cage while he shouted

“NOOOO!”

From that day on they lived happily ever after.

