

Oh No, Clairebelle

By: Roxi Gonzalez

Once upon a time these was a little girl named Clairebelle. She was 4 years old and very tall. She lived with her mom, dad, sister and brother.

Sister said "It is a nice day to ride bikes!" "That is a great idea!" said the brother "Let's ride bikes tomorrow." The sister said "ok."

Mom was washing dishes and Clairebelle was playing outside. She was building a sand castle she put a flag on the top of the sand castle. Then she went back inside the house and she played ball inside for awhile.

Finally, she went to her bedroom and she got under the covers and went to bed that day. In bed she made a plan to steal her mom's car. She wanted to do something crazy because she was bored.

The next day it was sunny and that was the day that Clairebelle made Mom mad.

Claireabella snuck into her mom's bedroom and stole the car keys out of her purse.

Once she had the keys she headed to the car and she opened the garage and got into the car. She started the car and she backed out of the garage. She drove to the street and headed to the roundabout.

While Claireabelle was driving she wrecked the car! She ran right into the middle of the roundabout. The tire popped!

BOOM, BAM, BOOM, BOOM, BON

The other tires popped too and the car could not move at all!

Mom realized that her car was gone and she got mad. "Why did my daughter take my car?" she yelled.

She went looking for her daughter. She walked to the roundabout she found her daughter. "Oh no" said the daughter "she found me!"

The Mad Mom drove them back home.

They went upstairs. They put on their pajamas.

Mom sent Clairebelle to her room.

The next day Mom had to fix her car. Clairebelle payed for the car and promised to never drive her car again.

